

Monette "Shoots" Animals

While some St. Lawrence students spend their summers landscaping or painting, Darell Monette ('94) spent his summer "hunting" rhinoceros, giraffe, and elephants in Africa, armed only with a camera and binoculars.

Monette participated in an independent study project on poaching control in East Africa.

'We can say now that the African elephant and the rhino will probably make it.'

As a part of the project, he interviewed wildlife officials in Nairobi, observed wild herds of endangered animals in the Serengeti Plain, and sailed a primitive boat to the coral reef off the Indian Ocean coast.

"We can say now that the African elephant and the rhino will probably make it.

"Despite corruption and very well-equipped poaching raids, the number of slaughtered animals has declined. Arming the Wildlife Service rangers and giving them 'shoot-to-kill' orders, as well as burning twelve tons of ivory, have shown the whole world that Kenya really means to end this threat to it's wildlife."

Monette interviewed Paul Chabeda, special adviser to the United Nations Environmental Program, on the changes in the Kenyan attitude towards it's wildlife.

"Kenyans now realize that these creatures will not survive without protections, and that lions and elephants are worth more as tourist attractions than they are as hides or tusks."

COMMUNITY ROOM OPENS

By Judy Rader

The formal opening and dedication ceremony of the Canton Community Room was held last Wednesday at the Canton Recreation Pavilion.

The room is a multi-purpose area above the ice rink for recreation, social gatherings, education, meetings, conventions and exhibitions.

Plans for the $43,000 project began in the spring of 1990.

The room was a joint cooperation between the Canton Lions Club and Complete Our Pavillion (COP).

Munsil Professor Robert Wells headed the Community Room/COP venture, which involved over 4,000 hours of volunteer work.

Wells said the volunteer work demonstrates "the caring, concern, courtesy and commitment" that signifies Canton.

Construction has begun at the site of the new P&C shopping center, located next to the Evergreen bar.

Photo by Wells Blaxter

STUDENTS GATHER TO SAVE RAINFOREST

Compiled from a Rainforest Conservancy press release

A football field of rainforest disappears every second. Seventy five acres are gone in a minute, and in one day an area the size of Philadelphia has been destroyed.

At this rate, the world's rainforest will be gone in our own lifetimes.

Students have the power to help prevent this event.

Rainforest Conservancy, a student group founded in 1989 to organize action to save the rainforest, is sponsoring the First International Student Rainforest

'Seventy-five acres are gone in a minute...'

Conference, to be held at Princeton University on September 27-29.

The conference will be attended by 750 to 1000 students from around the world.

The conference will be lead by over forty five top international rainforest experts and environmental leaders.

There will be keynote panels and addresses, seminars on leadership and management, and also group workshops where participants can come together to organize education, lobbying, and fundraising campaigns to save the rainforest.

POTSDAM COLLEGE EATS WELL

Potsdam N.Y. (CPS) - It was a spectacular night at the Star Lake Fish Camp. Hor d'oeuvres were served from canoes. Guests dined on a fest of Adirondack trout or roast filet mignon and finished with maple mousse.

It was a blue-ribbon meal, in a "Great Camp" setting, that won Potsdam College's dining service first prize in a nationwide contest held by the National Association of College University Food Services. The finner won rave reviews from officials invited from State Univeristy of New York institutions this past spring.

George Arnold, Potsdam's dining services manager, prepared a scrapbook that described the dinner, and a local teller and basketmaker entertained guests with tales of Adirondack history.

LAUNDRY CHUTE

2
MINUTES TO
DROP IT OFF
2
MINUTES TO PICK IT UP

- * Wash
- * Dry
- * Fold

EXCEED YOUR LIMITS

W
E
A
R
O
N
E
A
R
T
H

The Cheshire Cat
Boutique

Come See the New Fall
Arrivals And Smile!

Flannel Pants & Coordinating Tops
Sweater Dresses, Stirrup Pants & Sweaters, Jumpers,
Tights, Lingere, Leather Purses, Hats, and of course...
JEWELRY

Big grey house at by-pass in Potsdam (78 Market St.)
Hours: M-W&Fri 10-6 Th 10-8 Sat 10-5
Parking in rear